Hamamatsu will change the location of their Tokyo Sales Office to the vicinity of Tokyo Station offering stakeholders convenient traffic and commuting benefits. Hamamatsu Photonics will furnish it with a fully-equipped showroom to boost our information communication ability to both domestic and overseas stakeholders.

The new sales office will start operations on December 6th.

This year will mark the 50th anniversary since we first established our Tokyo Sales Office in 1971. During that time we moved to our current office (Toranomon, Minato-ku, Tokyo) in 1980 and by gradually expanding our available space and business features, we were able to carve out a large share of the market.

We will now be moving to the Tokiwabashi Tower, approximately a 1 minute walk from the Nihonbashi Exit of Tokyo Station, offering great commuting features and traffic network access. The showroom includes a whole host of features including a theater showing videos giving an overview of our business operations, management principles and other information, as well as a touch panel large-size display for describing main products and their application fields. This new business location will not only give better access to our overseas and domestic customers but will also benefit employees of our corporate group, as it will convey information to help others understand our company. From here onward, along with enhancing sales activity, our new Tokyo Sales Office will serve as a global entryway to our corporate group that deepens communication with the diverse groups of stakeholders who visit us.
